

This flowchart describes the possible processes following arrest, including what options the police have when they initially release you.

The option of Detention prior to (or instead of) arrest is a six-hour period of detention for questioning that won't be used for blockaders but might if you are stopped en route.

Note that Remand is very unlikely for this minor an offence (unless you are No Fixed Abode).

Post-Arrest Procedure in Scotland

